Re: Draft Rocky Habitat Management Strategy Phase II

Dear Chair Chuck and Members of the Ocean Policy Advisory Council,

The Pew Charitable Trusts is submitting public comment on behalf of 446 ocean advocates to support and recommend changes to Oregon's Rocky Habitat Management Strategy (Strategy). These advocates build upon the several hundred public comments submitted in advance of OPAC's initial revisions to the Rocky Shore Management Strategy.

The petition itself is included here, along with a compilation of the names, cities and states of individual signers.

Thank you for your time and consideration. We appreciate the opportunity to work with you to maintain healthy coastal and ocean ecosystems.

Re: Draft Rocky Habitat Management Strategy Phase II

Dear Chair Chuck and Members of the Ocean Policy Advisory Council,

I appreciate the efforts of the Ocean Policy Advisory Council and the Rocky Habitat Working Group to update rocky habitat management within Oregon's territorial sea. I write to you in support of Oregon's Rocky Habitat Management Strategy (Strategy), and to suggest three important changes.

First, OPAC should ensure that the Strategy clearly links to another important effort in Oregon: The Ocean Acidification and Hypoxia (OAH) Action Plan. Connecting kelp-focused actions in the OAH Action Plan with the Rocky Habitat Strategy will enhance both efforts. This should include adoption of policies with clear, precise language to require avoidance of impacts to submerged aquatic vegetation like kelp.

Second, please finalize the recommended rocky habitat designations from the 1994 Territorial Sea Plan by automatically including them in the updated plan. In 1994, the state working group recommended 10 habitat refuges, 8 marine gardens, 7 research reserves, and 7 priority offshore rocks/reefs. Unfortunately, some of the recommendations, although accepted by the state and now officially part of the Territorial Sea Plan, were never carried out by defining boundaries or implementing the recommended regulations in rule. The onus should not be on the public to start from scratch.

Lastly, please link Statewide Planning Goal 19's precautionary approach more clearly to this Strategy regarding protection of submerged aquatic vegetation. Based on the adage that 'it is better to be safe than sorry', the precautionary principle is often used in natural resource management to ensure biodiversity conservation is the priority when there is limited data about a specific species or habitat type. This means shifting the burden of proof of sustainability to proponents of an extractive or impactful activity while erring on the side of caution in the absence of good information. While this principle is stated in Goal 19 of Oregon's Statewide Planning Goals & Guidelines, it is currently not mentioned as a guiding approach in the Rocky Habitat Strategy.

Oregonians and Oregon's state agencies have long recognized the ecological, economic and social value of rocky habitats. And like all marine ecosystems, rocky habitats are vulnerable to the impacts of rapid coastal changes we're witnessing first hand on Oregon's coast. Increased protections are a key way to promote resilience in the face of this threat. These areas belong to the public and should be managed to ensure they continue to provide benefits for future generations.

Thank you for your consideration of my comments.

Sincerely,

We the undersigned

I was appalled to learn recently how little of that iconic coastline is protected by the state. Please prioritize protection of the kelp forests, critical to maintaining a healthy and sustainable off-shore habitats. Thank you for considering these comments.' |
| Pamela | Larsen | Hood River | OR | 97031 | 'As a Native Oregonian, the coast is a treasured gem and all the life within the ocean.' |
| Barbara | Ray | Salem | OR | 97301 | Bull kelp forests are a cornerstone habitat along much of Oregon's coast. Growing and attaching to the rocky seafloor, bull kelp provides critical habitat for scores of marine species from seals to sharks, cormorants to cabezon, as well as octopus, salmon, and dozens of species of rockfish. Safeguarding kelp resources is one of many reasons to enact new protective designations for Oregon's rocky habitat.' |
| Barbara | Keller | Eugene | OR | 97403 | 'Given the climate and pollution threats to our ocean, it is critically important that Oregon take a comprehensive and integrated approach on this policy.' |
